THE STRUTHERS FAMILY

FOREWORD

In this booklet and genealogy chart an effort has been made to record the personal history of the descendants of James Struthers, who was born at East Kilbride, Glasgow, Scotland, in the year 1817.

It is my conviction that the most important events in the life of a person are his birth, his marriage, and his death, and in assembling information I have attempted to record these dates, also the addresses, and, wherever possible, the place of burial. In preparing the copy for the following pages, it has been my purpose to think perhaps more of the present and future generations than of past generations. Having recorded names, dates, and places concerning all descendants to date, blank spaces have been provided to encourage and make it convenient for future generations to continue the record as accurately and as completely as possible.

The scope of this booklet covers about four generations, recording the names of an even one hundred direct descendants of my grandfather. Of this number eighty-six are now living, and in order that all members of this branch of the Struthers family may have a copy of this record, eighty-six booklets have been distributed, and it is my earnest hope that dates and other facts will be recorded from year to year, thus continuing the information on the growth of the Struthers family tree. A limited number of additional copies have also been provided for later distribution. It is my thought that at time of marriage a member of the family would treasure a family Bible with a copy of this booklet enclosed.

THE STRUTHERS FAMILY

While the booklet is primarily concerned with direct descendants of the Struthers family, an effort has been made to record some personal history regarding in-laws and their ancestors. This very much broadens the scope of the booklet, and it appears to me that these added facts will be of increasing interest to the present and future generations. Information concerning in-laws may be found on the back pages of this booklet.

The dates and historical facts herein recorded are as complete as possible, and I have attempted by checking and cross-checking to secure accurate information. There may, however, be errors; if so, I am sorry.

Time passes very rapidly, and now that the record has been put into print it is my earnest hope that some member of the family will issue another edition of this booklet within the next fifty years or before 1988.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and deep appreciation to all relatives for their cooperation, without which this booklet in which we have a mutual interest would not have been possible.

May God bless the present and future generations of the Struthers family.

EARLY HISTORY

STRUTHERS FAMILY

My paternal grandfather, James Struthers, was born November 16, 1817, in Lanarkshire (near Glasgow), Scotland. His father's name was John; his mother's name was Agnes (maiden name Riddell) Struthers.

At the age of twenty-seven Grandfather married Margaret Dykes, and that same year (1844) came to America with his young bride. The trip across the ocean required many weeks and was made in an American sailing vessel, probably of the Clipper type, which was used at that time. On this same trip came Grandfather's Aunt Jane and her husband, William Burns.

Grandfather settled at Athelstan, Quebec, Canada, and lived there and at Huntingdon and at Powerscourt, Quebec, for about eleven years, or until his first wife, Margaret Dykes, died, leaving five small children, Margaret, Jean, James Jeanet, and John. Grandfather's Aunt Jane, mentioned above, took two of his children, Margaret and Jean, to live with her for a time. Mr. Malcolm Taylor, a neighbor, took my father, James, to live with his family until Grandfather married again. In the fall of 1855 Grandfather moved with his family to Whitewater, Wisconsin, where he married his second wife, Margaret McDonald, that same year. About 1860 he moved to Cannon City, Rice County, Minnesota, and lived there until his death in 1894. Grandfather was a blacksmith by trade, and worked long hours shoeing horses and oxen and forging many tools, bolts, etc., by hand.

THE STRUTHERS FAMILY

Grandfather's uncle and aunt also lived at Athelstan. Mr. Burns, being an expert carpenter, made many pieces of furniture. Mr. Burns died April 26, 1869, aged eighty years; his wife died November 9, 1870, aged eighty-seven years. Both were buried in Hillside Cemetery, Athelstan, Quebec. They had no children.

Grandfather had five brothers and one sister. While I can find very little information concerning his family, in letters recently received from Scotland and from old letters I have been able to deduct the names and some meager personal history concerning the sister and four brothers.

A brother John, who moved to Minnesota with Grandfather and later purchased some farmland in Lyon County, Minnesota, in 1880, which was about the time that my father settled in this county. John had two daughters, Elizabeth and Agnes, who remained in Scotland and made their home with their Uncle Andrew. Elizabeth died April 15, 1893, at Flatt, East Kilbride, at the age of thirty years.

A brother Robert, who was born June 12, 1827, in the Parish of East Kilbride and who married Mary Steven in 1855 at Newlands, East Kilbride. She was the daughter of Robert and Ann Warnock Steven. David Steven, a descendant of Robert Steven, is still the owner of Newlands, and resides at No. 6, The Quadrant, Clarkston, Glasgow.

A brother Andrew, mentioned above, who died in 1890 and whose wife's name was Elizabeth. They had no children.

A brother William, of whom I can find no information excepting that he died in 1896.

A sister Jean, who is referred to in an old letter from Scotland dated 1885 as "Jeannie from Torrance." In another letter, "Uncle Daniel," also from Torrance, is mentioned. It may be that he was Jean's husband, or it is possible that Daniel was grandfather's fifth brother.

I find the name of John Aitkenhead, also his sister Margaret, of New Farm, mentioned in several old letters. One states that Agnes Aitkenhead of New Farm died on March 23, 1885. This letter also says that she was Grandfather's cousin.

A descendant of the Struthers family, who is also related to the Dykes, is William Struthers, whose address is Joiner and Cartwright, Jackton, East Kilbride.

From information I have been able to gather it would seem that the members of Grandfather's family in Scotland were rural people and that they made their living by tilling the soil and raising stock.

DYKES FAMILY

Margaret Dykes, my maternal grandmother, was born in East Kilbride, Scotland, about 1820. Her father's name was James; her mother's name was also Margaret Dykes.

Margaret Dykes had two brothers and two sisters.

A brother James, who was born in 1823 and died on June 2, 1895. He lived at Hairlaw, East Kilbride. His wife, Jane Strang Dykes, died at Hairlaw on June 1, 1900, aged seventy-eight years, and was buried at East Kilbride churchyard. They had no children. A descendant of the Dykes family still owns the farm at Hairlaw: John S. Dykes, Nether Enoch, Eaglesham, Renfrewshire.

A brother Thomas, who lived at Clayhedges, East Kilbride, and who died in 1869. He had four children: James, who died in July, 1935; William, who came to Canada about 1906; Thomas, who is still living in Sterlingshire, Scotland; and Elizabeth. Thomas Dykes, a grandson, who is a son of James, now lives at East Milton, East Kilbride, about eight miles from Glasgow.

A sister Jane, who died October 16, 1889, at East Kilbride. Her husband's name was William Lennox. They had no children.

A sister Janet, who never married and who died on September 1, 1894, at Hairlaw, East Kilbride.

MCDONALD FAMILY

Grandfather, James Struthers, married his second wife, Margaret McDonald, October 22, 1855, at Whitewater, Wisconsin. She was born February 28, 1832, in Lycoming County, Pennsylvania. Her father's name was George; her mother's name was Margaret (maiden name Gunning) McDonald. Although the name is spelled "Mc," the family was Scotch and not Irish. Mr. McDonald was born in Scotland; his wife was also Scotch, but was born in this country.

Three children were born of this union: George, Caroline, and William.

INDEPENDENTS OF JACOBSON'S THEOREM
AND STABILITY THEORY

1. INTRODUCTION

Let R be a ring. A subring S of R is called a Jacobson radical of R if S is the intersection of all maximal ideals of R . A subring S of R is called a stable subring of R if S is a Jacobson radical of R .

2. THEOREM 1

Let R be a ring. If S is a stable subring of R , then S is a Jacobson radical of R . Conversely, if S is a Jacobson radical of R , then S is a stable subring of R .

3. THEOREM 2

Let R be a ring. If S is a stable subring of R , then S is a Jacobson radical of R . Conversely, if S is a Jacobson radical of R , then S is a stable subring of R .

4. THEOREM 3

Let R be a ring. If S is a stable subring of R , then S is a Jacobson radical of R . Conversely, if S is a Jacobson radical of R , then S is a stable subring of R .

These theorems are proved in the following sections. The first section contains the proof of Theorem 1, the second section contains the proof of Theorem 2, and the third section contains the proof of Theorem 3.

THE STRUTHERS FAMILY

Finally, brethren,
Whatsoever things are true,
Whatsoever things are honest,
Whatsoever things are just,
Whatsoever things are pure,
Whatsoever things are lovely,
Whatsoever things are of good report;
If there be any virtue, and
If there be any praise,
Think on these things.
